The protest Mrs. Britten sailed away, with last Wednesday. I believe was signed by several thousand petitioners from every State in the union who feel that those colored semi-civilized troops should hot be in control of white Christian people. I think Britten talked with Viviani on the subject before he sailed for France early in the week.

I was interested to read that Mrs. William Miller Graham, of New York and California, and prominent socially in many other large cities including the National Capital, has won a divorce in Oklahoma. The story continued that Mrs. Miller Graham is internationally known story continued that Mrs. Miller Graham is internationally known for her beauty and that her daughter, Miss Geraldine Miller Graham was called the most beautiful girl in America by the Prince of Wales. She is best remembered in Washington, I think, as the daughter of the woman who came here and took a house for two weeks—the George Howard house in Sixteenth street—so as to be able to entertain while the Prince of Wales was in town. Both mother and daughter were charming and were included in many of the parties given for the Prince, but I never heard that Miss Miller Graham made any special impression on him. The only girl he showed any special attentions to here was Marguerite Simonds, now Mrs. Peter Drury, ir., upon whom he called. Why he didn't specially admire Miss Graham, I don't know, for she is lovely. Her mother was quite good looking let gave the impression of having been much more beautiful years ago. I think the Grahams went to New York from here when the Prince left Washington for that city. According to the stories that drifted back here from New York of his visit there, he paid more attention to Miss Milicent Bogers than to any one else. She saw lots of him here in Washington, too, and also while he was at "the Sulphur Springs for a rest. She was one of a group of girls was went down from Washington.
